

Rochester Capital Forum to focus on growth in health information field

Staff reports • May 24, 2010

The Upstate Venture Association of New York and the Rochester Business Alliance will present the Rochester Capital Forum from 5 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, June 8. The session will focus on opportunities for information technology companies in managing health and medical information.

Ted Kremer, executive director of the Greater Rochester Regional Health Information Organization, will give the keynote talk and lead a panel discussion on trends, products and services in the rapidly growing medical information market.

The event will be at the Locust Hill Country Club, 2000 Jefferson Road in Pittsford.

The Rochester Capital Forum is sponsored by Citizens Bank, Cochran, Cochran and Yale LLC, NYSERDA and the law firm Duane Morris LLP. Registration is available online at www.uvany.com or at the door the day of the event.

Prior to the capital forum, the Upstate Venture Association and the RBA will host a panel discussion on "Effective Strategies in Capitalizing Your Business and Managing Interest Rate Risk" from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Cost of the events range from $20 for attending only the afternoon discussion to $70 for nonmembers of UVANY attending both sessions. Details are available at www.uvany.com.
